

Solink: Cloud Security for Showrooms

Every business needs a functioning security system. Unfortunately for a lot, it is an afterthought met with outdated infrastructure that may be working ineffectively or no longer supported by the manufacturer. A common situation encountered with on-premise security camera solutions is the local Network Video Recorder (NVR) suddenly failing without warning. And the problem may not be discovered for days or weeks resulting in loss of all security recordings.

CORE ELEMENTS HAS PARTNERED WITH SOLINK:

A leading provider of hybrid cloud security Video Management System (VMS), to deliver a secure, scalable and easy-to-use solution resolving the challenges of traditional security video systems while incorporating advanced video analytic capabilities.

Elevating Showroom Security with Seamless, Hybrid Cloud Integration:

Solink's VMS offers showrooms a modern solution designed for today's challenges. It integrates local video recordings with the cloud to improve overall performance and resiliency. And, regardless of the cameras you use, Solink's technology-agnostic approach ensures you can seamlessly integrate your current cameras, without the need for expensive upgrades or replacements.

More Than Just Video Storage

The Solink system goes beyond basic video storage and playback. Advanced video analytic capabilities help extract valuable insights from your video footage with advanced features like motion search and allowing users to save and share videos by email within the app. With motion search capabilities, analyzing video footage provides precise customer traffic counts. This data can help optimize staffing levels and inform layout changes to enhance the overall customer experience.
